

CHRISTINE EDGAR

Project Manager – Business Coaching Systems, WA

Christine has a background in mentoring and education and knows first-hand how the coaching process can improve individuals and workgroups.

Her passion for business coaching, particularly performance management, is born out of many years experience as a secondary school administrator and teacher, and more recently from her experiences as a university lecturer in the business, engineering and education fields.

Christine readily identifies with clients and their objectives. She knows that a well planned project, which is well managed and executed, will deliver on the required outcomes and is a key driver to client's achieving their objectives. Being a purposeful project manager allows Christine to guide the process and create confidence in the workgroup that they will achieve stated goals. Christine's role is to ensure all agreed project outcomes are delivered within the project timeframe and to the client's complete satisfaction.
